Comments and Highlights on next page

Comments: Lewis Central was picked as one of the preseason favorites this year with good reason. They returned most of last year's young team and they are deep with quality players throughout their lineup. The match could have gone either way. We fortunately played well against a stout team. I was particularly impressed with the strong finish of taking all 3 of the doubles matches.

Highlights: Colin Reis' serve looked better than ever. He needed it against LC's talented sophomore.

Carson Seuntjens continued his dominance on the tennis court in his 8-2 win. He has all the shots in the book.

Harrison Dahm was on fire. His opponent could just watch as groundstroke after groundstroke blew by him.

Wyatt Johnson secured the team victory today. We were up 4-2 from 3 singles wins and the #1 doubles win and Wyatt's singles match was still going on. His opponent and he kept trading the lead. Up 7-6 with 1 game to win, Wyatt dropped the next 2 games and was a game away from losing. He stepped it up, won the next game to force a tiebreak, then started fast with a 3-0 lead and ended up winning 7-5.
