Comments and Highlights on next page

Comments: Shenandoah really pushed us in singles. They had a patient style of play that kept making us hit another and another shot. It was good for us to see this style and in the end we handled it fairly well. I was pleased to see us taking chances in doubles and our aggression paid off well.

Highlights: Colin Reis is hitting with very nice placement. He was in complete control of his groundstrokes and volleys in his singles match.

Harrison Dahm had to gut out very long points to win an exhausting 10-6 win. Many other players could have mentally shut down, but he fought through the adversity today.

Adolfo Vargas went back to his old ways of patiently setting up his winning forehand.

Carson Seuntjens was in a battle for the first half of his match but then ran away at the end with a 10-5 decision.

Wyatt Johnson keeps improving. His groundstrokes were noticeably better today than at any time I have ever seen him.
