Comments

Today was our first invitational in over 27 years. The format was designed to test the depth of a squad. Players had to choose whether to play singles or doubles. In the Varsity Division, there were 3 flights of singles and 3 flights of doubles. In the JV Division, there were 2 flights of singles and 2 flights of doubles. Colin Reis narrowly missed 1st place losing to the Ames player by 1 game. Harrison Dahm played well throughout the day. This was a good venue to shake the winter rust off his groundstrokes and serves. Braden Curnyn fell behind in his big matches, but typical for him, he fought back into it well. Wyatt Johnson and Carson Sentjens are a great doubles team with each other. They held their own against Boone's #1 doubles team. I can't wait to see how good they'll be by the end of the season. Gavin Hipnar and Matthew Wertz in their first year of tennis barely lost 5-6 to Ames' #4 doubles team. They too should make leaps and bounds by the end of the season. Blaine Brodsky also in his first year of tennis is a natural, and with an unbelievably improved Jorge Zuniga, also did well today. With the poor weather hampering practices this year, this invitational will hopefully go a long way to improving our play for the rest of the season.
